Sub –Training Programme on “Amendment of BR Act -1949 – Applicable to Cooperative Banks” at VAMNICOM, Pune from 05th – 07th July, 2023 - forwarding of nominations-Reg

Co-operative institutions provide an alternative approach to financial inclusion in India through their geographic and demographic outreach to the urban and rural populace. During 2020-21, the co-operative sector, however, faced certain financial challenges. Episodes of frauds during the year affected the asset quality and profitability of urban co-operative banks (UCBs).

During last year so far, uncertainties related to COVID-19 have affected the operations of this sector, as they did for the other financial institutions. Despite these weaknesses, this period also witnessed steering of reforms in the form of setting up of an umbrella organisation that will ease funding constraints to these banks, and amendment to the Banking Regulation Act which addressed the vexing issue of dual regulatory control.

Out of the 1539 UCBs there are 54 Scheduled UCBs which control share of 47% of assets, in the UCB sector. The financial soundness of the sector has been a concern over the years. Considerable initiatives have been taken to bring capacity building and adoption of technology. These initiatives notwithstanding, several structural issues confront the sector such as dual regulation by the Reserve Bank and the Central/State governments, inability to combine the principles of co-operation with professionalism, lack of avenues to raise additional capital, the need of technological up gradation and more recently, incidences of frauds.

The amendment, which was notified on September 29, 2020, came into force for UCBs with retrospective effect i.e. from June 29, 2020. The amendment also provides the Reserve Bank extensive powers to supersede the management of the urban co-operative bank in consultation with the state government concerned. These measures are intended to protect the interest of the depositors while ensuring proper management and without causing any disruption to the financial system.

These amendments are likely to improve the management and financial performance of co-operative banks and enable the Reserve Bank to regulate them more effectively. The enactment of the Banking Regulation (Amendment) Act, 2020 is expected to address some of these problems

In this backdrop – Training Programme on “Amendment of BR Act -1949 – Applicable to Cooperative Banks” from 5th – 7th July 2023 - is planned to be conducted at VAMNICOM, Pune.

Objectives of the Programme:

- To create awareness about recent Amendments of BR Act (2020).
- To make the participants understand the implications of Amended BR Act (2020) on the functioning of cooperative banks.
- To bring about necessary changes and adaption of recent RBI guidelines in respect of functioning of cooperative banks.
